

Joan B. Kroc Institute for Peace & Justice invites you to join us for:

JOAN B. KROC
INSTITUTE FOR PEACE & JUSTICE
UNIVERSITY OF SAN DIEGO

A Night at the Theatre with the Women PeaceMakers: 9 Parts of Desire

An Artist. An Exile. An American.
A Doctor. A Girl. A Survivor.
A Mullaya. A Lover. An Old Woman.
What does it mean to be a woman from Iraq?

Presented by Mo`olelo Performing Arts Company
Thursday, October 22, 2009, 7:30 p.m.
The 10th Avenue Theatre
930 10th Avenue, San Diego, CA 92101

Inspired and extracted from true events, “9 Parts of Desire” is the story of nine Iraqi women living in Baghdad, London and New York who confront the world in both ordinary and surprising ways, revealing conflicting perspectives about an age-old war zone. The play is only one act (approximately 90 minutes in length) and will be followed by a post-show discussion with Shelley Orr, Ph.D., on “Theater and Social Change.”

Mo`olelo Performing Arts Company is offering a special ticket rate of $20 per ticket for Friends of the IPJ for the October 22 performance. Reservations are required for the discounted tickets. To make your reservations, visit www.moolelo.net and click “TICKETS” on the left. Enter the coupon code ANG0921 to receive your discount.

If you prefer to order by phone, call (619) 342-7395. Regular tickets are $22 - $27.

Fostering peace, cultivating justice, creating a safer world.

University of San Diego • 5998 Alcalá Park • San Diego, CA 92110 • <http://peace.sandiego.edu>